CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R. R.

IS THE GREAT CONNECTING LINK BETWEEN THE EAST & THE WEST!
It is the main line from Chicago to Council
Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Jesse, Iowa City, Marquette, Brookfield, Grinnell,
Des Moines, the capital of Iowa, Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca, with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; from Junction to Muskaline, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Holman, Centerville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Camden, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City;
Washington to Sioux City, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentsen, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddy-ville, Oskaloosa, Peoria, Monroe, and Des Moines; Newtown to Monroe, Des Moines to Indianola and Winterest; Atlantic to Lewis and Auditor; and Avoca to Hannibal. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its trucks are laid with steel rails.
What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars, that accompany all through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for twenty-five cents.Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes and the immense passenger business of this line, we are pleased to announce that this company runs Pullman Palace
Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Harris" at all hours of the day.Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth, and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.THE PRINCIPAL R. R. CONNECTIONS OF BRIEFLETS.

—More rain.

—Another chance for bare feet to pad-dle in the puddles.

—A. H. Hollister, one of Madison's prominent druggists, was in the city to-day.

—The City Council meets to-night. Will they make a City Marshal? If so, who?

—There was a change of about thirty degrees between 6 o'clock last night and 7 o'clock this morning.

—The Republican Club is to meet this evening at 8 o'clock at Bennett & Sales' office. A full turn out is wanted.

—Rev. Father McGinnity, of Monroe, the new pastor of St. Patrick's church of this city, made a pleasant call at the Gazette office to-day.

—Where is the old saying that if it com-mences to rain before seven it will stop before eleven? They must mean eleven o'clock at night.

—H. B. Walker starts in a day or two for New Mexico, to join the surveying party of which so many Janesville men are already members.

—The money order department handled $2,245.58 cash last week, the orders paid amounting to $145.74 and the orders issued amounting to $792.84.

—A well made up fishing party started out for the lake about 2 o'clock this morn-ing. Their strings of fish will get wet bringing them home, we fear.

—We know now what ails the weather. Some miscreant last night smashed the thermometer at Webb & Hall's corner. It has been six months since they had one broken.

—Mrs. E. H. Davies received a telegram yesterday stating that her father had a stroke of paralysis and was sinking rapidly. She started for the East on this morn-ing's train.

—Mr. Lamphere, who had his foot badly burned by molten iron at the Harris works, a few days ago, is in danger of losing his leg thereby. He is at his home in Madison, and is being cared for by Dr. Fox, who thinks amputation will become necessary.

—Fred Comstock and Will Sherer were quickly spilled out of a buggy yesterday. In turning about, the horse jumped a little, the wheel struck a stone, and the riders struck the ground. The horse cleared from the buggy and skipped. No great damage done.

—Mrs. Wilson, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. D. King, has received a telegram from her son, telling her not to be in a hurry about returning to her Oconto home, as there is about four feet of water in the house. The giving away of the dam caused the flood. She will wait till the water goes down a little.

—The Grand Council and Grand Temple of the Temple of Honor are to meet in LaCrosse this week. The delegates from Janesville are A. D. Wickham, E. L. Dim-ock, M. S. Priedrich, S. C. Burnham, J. D. King, James Clark, B. F. Cressett, and A. W. Baldwin. All but the last three are to start to-day. Joseph Flieger is to go to represent the town of Janesville Temple.

—Miss Carrie Skinner, one of those who was poisoned in some way at the party in Shopiere, was taken much worse last Sat-urday night. Yesterday morning she was in a semi-conscious condition but last night she was much more comfortable again. The other sick ones are reported as get-ting along all right. The cause of the general sickness has not yet been ascer-tained.

—Our advertisers rushed upon us to-day, and all wanted to change their "ads." The druggists wanted to make cough medicines and chest protectors more prominent, the carriage makers wanted to put in their old "ads" about bob-sleds, the clothing men desired to say they had dusters still for sale, and the drink-mixers wanted to say a word about hot slings, but we persuaded them all to wait a bit, for this Manitoba wouldn't last.

—He was an intelligent man too, but it was with the utmost sincerity of soul that he placed faith in the story of the young man who showed him an old silver coin and told him that it was a United States coin of 1215. The intelligent man took pains to tell several of his friends what a relic he had seen, but finally one of them asked him if he remembered how long Uncle Sam had been ruling this country. "Well, I declare," he said, "I never in the world thought about that. There wasn't any Uncle Sam to make coin in 1215, was there? Well, now, I've told that story for truth several times. Oh, how!" He's lost his interest in old coins now.

—Universally acknowledged the best, Astor House, New York.

AFTER THE YOUNG MEN.

A special meeting of unusual interest has been arranged by the Young Men's Christian Association to take place next Wednesday evening at Cannon's hall, to commence at eight o'clock. Various de-tails of the work being done here and plans of work in leading cities will be presented. Among those expected to be present and give addresses are S. M. Say-ford, State Secretary of the Massachusetts Association, W. H. Bands, General Sec-etary of Columbus, Ohio, C. W. Turner and W. H. Clement, General Secretaries of the Milwaukee and Racine Associations, and W. E. Loomis, the Wisconsin State Sec-etary.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Last evening at Court street church there was a special service for and by the chil-dren and members of the Sunday school, in observance of Children's Day. The church was beautifully decorated, there being on the platform stands of plants and bouquets of flowers. The orchestra was decorated with green festoons, looped with flowers, hanging baskets of flowers adorned the gar-brackets, a large cross graced the front of the organ, and bouquets, potted plants and birds in cages added their beauty to the scene.

The audience was large, the main floor and gallery being filled. The cen-tral seats of the church were occupied by the members of the school, and the exercises were such as to bring into use the voices of all. The church choir led in the singing of Sunday school hymns, the pastor led in the repetition of the Lord's prayer, and the scripture read-ing was responsive. Rev. Mr. Stowe offered the opening prayer.

The exercises were of a pleasing nature, and were listened to attentively. Miss Kit-tee Carle gave a recitation "The Bright, Bright Flowers." Miss Jessie Smith recited "The Child's Wish," and Frank Phelps gave "A Hymn to the Flowers." Rev. Mr. Paville gave a happy ten minute talk, and introduced as a sort of junior pastor, to do the preaching, Charlie Hayner, who gave a cute little sermon on the text "Make It Plain," which he divided up into his first, second, etc., and presented it in a true clerical manner. Three boys gave the three rules of life, the "iron rule," "silver rule," and "golden rule." A company of the little folk, called the "Bird Class," gave the language of the birds in a charming manner, closing by putting their heads under their wings for the night's sleep. "The Golden Nine," was given by nine little girls having reversible banners, on each of which was given one of "the fruits of the Spirit." They repeated their texts and responses, and sang together until all of the nine fruits had been presented.

"Stepping Heavenward" was a pleasing exercise bringing in ten boys and ten girls. Steps covered with green were provided, and upon these were built up, one motto at a time, the supposed steps heavenward, beginning with "Repentance," and ending with "Love." When these steps had one by one been thus decorated, a little girl came forth from the organ loft, and repeat-ing "except ye become as little children ye cannot enter the kingdom of heaven," she crowned the work with an elegant basket of flowers. Miss Kunkle then read one of Holland's poems "Heaven is not reached by a single bound," a most appro-priate selection, and rendered by Miss Kunkle in a skillful and pleasing manner.

The closing of the service consisted of all singing a verse of "the sweet by and by," repeating the chorus softly, then all uniting in the Mizpah "The Lord watch between us and thee when we are absent one from another," and the pastor pro-nouncing the benediction.

FORBES FELL FLAT.

The Forbes dramatic company did not have a very large audience Saturday night, but fully as large as the merit of the per-formance warranted. Whether it was owing to a small audience, or to the fact that it was their closing night for the sea-son, or to some other reason, we cannot say, but for some reason it is certain the company did poor work, and by no means sustained the favorable reputation they had gained here before. The play of "Asa Whitcomb," is an imitation of Josh Whit-comb, and embraces many of the comical situations embodied in the latter, but there was such an over-attempt to make them appear funny, such a strain in some parts, such a listlessness in others, that the whole fell as flat as a man stepping on an orange peel, without making one-tenth part as much fun for the crowd watching. The play presented was weak as most imitations are, and it was made weaker still by the way it was rendered. We are sorry that Forbes did not do better by himself and by Janesville, for he had gained a little foot-hold here by his previous entertainments, but Saturday night caused him to lose all he had gained.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.
The thermometer at 6 o'clock last even-ing stood at 82 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., to-day at 70 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 53 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m., at 58 degrees above. Steady rain.

Saturday evening at 6 o'clock the ther-mometer stood at 59 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., yesterday at 70 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 78 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m., at 86 degrees above.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, stationary or rising barometer, falling, followed by stationary, or rising temperature, north to east winds, partly cloudy weather, with local rains.

Pretty and Young.

In every feature but the hair, which had grown white from fever. This lady at 35 writes us: "I have used Parker's Hair Balsam six months and am more than pleased with it. It has restored the nat-ural brown color of my hair and given it a silky softness, nicer than ever before. There is no Dandruff, no falling hair, and it leaves the scalp so clean and nice and cool that I am ever so much pleased, and I feel and look like myself again." The beautiful, fresh and vigorous hair it pro-duces, together with the property of re-storing gray or faded hair to the natural youthful color, and entirely freeing the head from dandruff and itching, surprises no less than it pleases. Sold in large bot-tles at only 50 cents and $1.00 by all first class druggists.

CITY NOTICES.

The expenditure of brain power too early or too severely in children often re-sults in physical debility. The use of Fel-low's Hypophosphates exerts a singularly happy effect in such cases.

THE EAGLE'S TALK.

Some Touching Words from "Old Abe" Translated by Bob Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeye—The Reunion of Colonel Britton's Regi-ment.

Among the many doings of the Milwau-kee reunion none were more interesting or touching than those in which the old members of the Eighth regiment—"the Eagle" regiment—were concerned. There were about one hundred and twenty-five of these old veterans, who had lived through some of the hardest fighting of the whole war, and who now gathered as remnants of the shattered ranks, and came together to once more talk over those never-to-be forgotten times. They were a jolly set, and yet there was a tender and a serious side to the gathering.

When Colonel Britton arrived in Milwau-kee, he was met by this band of brave ones, who under command of Col. Lyon, or as he is known in times of peace, Judge Lyon, had marched with band, with the old eagle, and with the remnants of the old flag, to give him hearty welcome. It was a complete surprise to Colonel Britton but he liked it, and the rousing cheers and "the tiger" showed how welcome he was.

The regiment had its headquarters in some fine rooms on Wisconsin street, opposite the post office, and there a whole volume of pleasing incidents might have been gathered. Whenever the regiment appeared upon the streets the crowds cheered and shouted, there was a waving of handkerchiefs, and a wild whirl of enthusiasm which greeted those brave veter-ans and their noted eagle. At first, when there was an unusual outburst of applause, or a marked crowd of ladies with waving handkerchiefs, Colonel Britton, who was in command, would raise his hat in acknowledgement, but he soon found that to do this was to keep his hat bobbing off and on, and as the crowd thickened and the cheers increased, he took in all the encores at once, and kept his hat off, and let that answer as a "thank you" for all. "Old Abe" marked the regiment as a target for just such uproarious applause along the whole line, and no pen can picture the wild enthusiasm.

The reunion of the Eighth was one of the pleasantest of all the features of the big occasion. There was speech-making and story telling and the two or three hundred ladies and gentlemen who gath-ered with the old veterans were highly entertained. One choice bit of the pro-gramme is too choice to let sleep in the quiet of a pigeon hole, and we are sure our readers will enjoy it most heartily, it being from one of the old members of the Brigade—Robert J. Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeye. It was read at this reunion, and was liberally punctuated with cheers and tears by the old comrades as they listened to the words of this one who was unable to be present in body, though the whole of him was evidently there in spirit. The following is the letter:

OFFICE OF THE HAWKEYE,
BURLINGTON, IOWA.

My dear Comrades of the Wisconsin Eighth: In response to your kind invitation, I tendered me through A. C. Weisert, I can only say, "Don't let me count." For among my pleasant memories of the glo-rious old "Second Brigade," the Eagle reg-iment has won a warm and a prominent place, and I would like to sit down with you and talk over the old days of drum and bugle, and tell how many times in the midst of the battle I have been in his horse, and came to me in the ranks and said to me, "Bob, I wish you would take this division and do something with it; you're the only man in the United States Army that can get us out of this snarl." And how many times I was scared to death, and couldn't find a tree big enough to hide me from the men that were really, willing and anxious to make a target of me. I could talk for a week about Red River and Nashville, and Vicksburg and Tupelo and Spanish Fort, and all the grief and fun we have seen together. Only a few weeks ago I met a lot of our fellows of the 2d Iowa Battery, Captain Spoor among them, who is now out in Denver railroad, and Joe Reed, who is a judge in a western Iowa circuit, and Sergeant Scott Rice, who is in the mail service at Council Bluffs, and Sergeant Reynolds who is a druggist at Burlington, Iowa, and Peoria, Illinois. I met no end of men in my own regiment, the 47th Illinois, Col. McClure, county clerk, Captain Sam Law, who was division quartermaster on old Joe's staff, and Lieutenant Col. Baker, now in the railway mail service. Captain George Peterbaugh and I don't know how many others that I like to see and like to hear about. Last winter I passed a day in New London, Conn. Mower's old home, and there his widow still lives. There was some talk, at one time, of the old Second Brigade raising money and erecting a monument over old Joe's grave.

I wish you could talk it up and put the scheme into some shape. There was no man in the army more deserving of such an honor. And then—

But I am taking up all the time and I know the rest of you want to talk. The teamsters may want a chance to tell something about it, and they always knew more about a fight than anyone else. I suppose as they always had a chance to see more of it. They didn't have to do so much dodging as the rest of us. I would like to be with you. Two years ago I met "Old Abe" in old South church down in Boston. It was the first time I had met him since the war. I wanted to cry. He knew me. I went up to the cage and the tears came into my eyes when I spoke to him. The old bird turned and looked at me.

"Bob, you rascal," he said, "is that you?"

I told him it was, and wanted to know what he was doing down there.

"Oh," he said, "I am down here helping Old South church out of its mortgages and acquiring a little culture. Queer people down here. The mother that came here in her with her family and told them that I fought all through the Revolutionary war, and had a nest on Boston common, and those people actually got down on their knees around the cage; and then when the keeper told them I was only about 15 years old, they got up and never came back into that part of the church. I have heard myself called an arctic owl, and a fish hawk since I've been here."

"Do you remember," he said, "down at Chubb-a-luck Island, when I gave you a squirrel and you bit my thumb?"

"I do," said the bird, "and I remember how mighty it tasted of tobacco too; I bit a great many thumbs in the army," the old bird went on reflectively, "and I always tasted more tobacco than soap. Once I bit an Eighth Missouri man's cheek, and may I die bald if I didn't have three whiskey fies before morning. By the way," he added, "speaking of whiskey, I haven't seen you at any of our reunions."

"No," I said, "the reunions always hit me at a busy time, and in fact I was too busy nearly all the time to get away."

"Well," Old Abe said, "that is a good enough excuse, if it is true, and I guess it is, because a soldier won't go, no more than a West Point cadet. But don't stay away from the reunions, Robert, because you're ashamed to come. It has been growing too common, this being ashamed that you were a soldier. I know lots of men who are ashamed of it; men who won't march in the line on Decoration day; men who won't join the O. A. R.; men who act on every occasion where soldiers come to-gether publicly, as though they were ashamed of it, and wanted to forget they ever were in the army. We used to say in the army, 'God hates a coward,' and these fellows are the meanest kind of cow-ards. God hates them. The soldiers and I think they must want to go out some times and hate themselves to death. But we're changing all this, and the proudest men in this land should be the men who, looking at the flag waving over an un-divided Union, can say, 'I helped to plant it there.' The men whose eyes grow brighter at the sound of a bugle call, whose hearts beat quicker at the tap of a drum, who walk the streets with their swinging old 'get there' gait that is only learned on the long dusty roads and wearisome marches, and is never taught in a frescoed drill room. The men whose numbers are growing less and less year by year, and whose ranks cannot be recruited—how closely they should be knit together now. Look at them at their reunions and in the column on Decoration day. Count the gray heads, the bowed shoulders; look at the white beards, see the spectacles that reinforce the failing eye sight. Why, where are all the young fellows who were in the army with you? What has become of the boys? What does it mean? Oh, my dear Robert, the colonel of 40, is an old man of 60 now; the captain of 30 can't comb the gray hair over that bald spot that used to be covered with a coal black thatch, and his married children came home to celebrate his fiftieth birth-day last week, and your comrade of 20—well, yes, that is him, full bearded, with an earnest face, and he buys shoes for six little feet now. You? Oh, yes, you have changed just as much as he has. And so, year by year, the reunions will be more and more attended, the old heads will be grayer and the old eyes dimmer, and as the ranks thin out, there will be no recruits to fill them up. The old guard will die out at last without replacements, surround-ing to the only enemy who ever made it tremble, the relentless old Time him-self. But as the old eyes grow dimmer, thank God, the old hearts will grow warmer and the old dreams brighter, and the last days of the "old guard," how beautiful they will be. Be proud my boy that you are one of them; walk across the street to shake hands with a soldier and call him comrade, and when you lay "Old Abe" away, for his days are nearly num-bered, bury him like a soldier, and bring a soldier's honors to his grave, and tell your children, when you teach them to love their country as the men of the grand old Second Brigade loved it, tell them over my letter that here was a bird, who was named after the grandest and best man that God ever sent to save a nation; that here was a bird who marched three long years, through storm and sun, through light and dark, through fire and blood, between two loyal flags; a bird who hated a traitor and loved the raggedest blue jacket that ever covered a loyal heart; a bird that did his part in striking the let-ters from four millions of human beings, because he loved freedom with the God given instinct of a bird, and wanted to elevate mankind as nearly to his own level as possi-ble. And when you see any of the old boys Robert, tell them "Howdy" for me, and tell them for both of us. "Good boys, God bless you all!"

Ever your comrade,
ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

The PERUVIAN SYRUP is one of the most won-derful discoveries of the day. It consists of simple yet powerful ingredients skillfully com-pounded and it positive value as a tonic and purifier is attested by persons of learning and re-spectability whose veracity cannot be called in question. Temperance people will find the PERUVIAN SYRUP an unequalled tonic, entirely free from alcohol, and its use is therefore not attend-ed by the reactionary weakness which follows the use of alcoholic stimulants. A single bottle will convince any one of its positive value. Sold by druggists almost everywhere. Sold in Janes-ville by Prentice & Evenson. feb14dally
